The Virtue quartz mill in Baker county is said to be running on very rich rock

The Mountaineer says that Vic Trevitt has gone to South America for his health.

Father Mesplie, formerly of the Dalles has been appointed a Chaplain in the army

Dr Watts has begun a course of lectures, 16 in number, on the book of Revelations at Lafayette

James Butler's horse fell with him a few days ago near Eugene City, and James has a broken leg

Julius Kelly indicted by the grand jury of Lane county for perjury, has been tried and acquitted

The Corvallis firemen are to be presented with a beautiful flag by the ladies on Wednesday of this week

Mr. Hand has purchased Major M P Berry's interest in the Mountaineer, at the Dalles, and is now sole proprietor

George F McCone has retired from the Corvallis Democrat Mr Meade is now sole proprietor and will continue its publication.

Dr Bayley informs the Democrat that there is no foundation for the published report that the Oregon Central Military Road Company has sold its land grant

The Corvallis Gazette has completed its ninth volume, and the editor will take a breathing spell until December 10th, when the next volume will begin

A post mortem examination was held over a deceased cow, which had belonged to Mr Simmons of Lane county, and in her heart was found a piece of hoop skirt steel about three inches long.

Oakland contains two hotels, three stores, a drug store, blacksmith shop, saddler's shop market, and many private residences, while others are constantly being erected A flouring mill will be erected in the spring

The Republican City Convention at Salem last Saturday evening made the following nominations: For Mayor, Dr H. Carpenter, for Recorder, C S Woodworth, for Treasurer, A N Gilbert, for Marshal, J A Baker

At the last term of the Circuit Court for Coos county, an Indian was tried for the murder of Burton, of Burton prairie The murder was committed some fourteen years ago and as the proof was not conclusive the Indian was discharged

The grand jury of Lane county indicted four men for keeping open on Sunday a house for the sale of spirituous liquors, but the Court decided that the City Council of Eugene had exclusive jurisdiction of this matter, and dismissed the indictments

The grand jury of Wasco county have submitted their final report, which contains this flattering statement "A state of morals more favorable than has been obtained in the county for some time, cheering alike to the philanthropist and tax payer."

Empire City is having a new jail It is built in a firm and substantial manner, and it will be almost impossible for a culprit to effect an escape The building will not cost $12,000, as did one in Linn county, but it is thought, when completed, that it will hold anything—nearly as large an object as a man.

The Democrat says "Mr Briggs, who returned from Elk City on Saturday last, informs us that a terrific gale was experienced on the bay on Thursday night of last week The Oneatta was blown against the pier at which she was moored and had a portion of her guards torn away The damage, however, was slight, and was speedily repaired "

A new "addition" has been added to Roseburg The Plaindealer says "Mr John Wade, engineer, has finished the surveys extending the town plat so as to include the field of Mr A Ross, in which the depot is situated This addition will furnish plenty of room for the growth of the town as well as many eligible sites for business and dwelling houses

The Plaindealer says "The slide on the Rice hill has been removed On Tuesday the Portland train passed through to Oakland, and the construction train to Roseburg. We learn that it is the intention to crib the Quinn cut, in order to prevent slides in the future Some difficulty has been experienced in the delivery of freight at Roseburg, from the fact there is as yet neither depot or agent The frame of the depot is now up, and in a short time the difficulties will be removed "

The Portland correspondent of the Corvallis Gazette says that in the order of the Independent Champions of the Red Cross, as gotten up by George B. Taylor, there is a degree called "The Sublime Degree of the Heroes of Mesopotamia," which is a miserable farce, full of intolerant and sectarian bigotry, calculated to injure the cause of temperance in the country, and promote hate and everything uncharitable and unchristian, no right minded, honest man or woman, having any love or regard for republican government, can ever take the obligation contained in it "

The Salem Mercury has the following "A requisition has been received and signed by Gov Grover, from Governor Ferry of Washington Territory, for Frank McCann, indicted by the grand jury of Pierce county, Washington Territory, for assault with intent to commit murder. We understand, also, that a writ of habeas corpus has been issued by Judge Bonham to prevent his being taken from the State We are unable to get any particulars concerning this, however, but presume the writ was issued with a view to securing McCann's testimony on the trial of Glaze, who killed young Whitley at Dallas a few months ago "

The Salem paper of Saturday says. "The statement which was made in Tuesday's Statesman in regard to the accident with which Mr J H Baughman met the day before was erroneous in one respect. Instead of falling from an apple tree he fell from a fir tree, which he was topping It has been ascertained by actual measurement that he fell from a height of 52 feet We learned last evening that he is still suffering intensely from the injuries he received, and is in a critical condition, but having survived so long—much longer than was at first supposed possible—his friends are entertaining hopes of his eventual recovery "

POSTAGE ON PICTURES —We clip the following item from the Sacramento Union of November 16

We notice by our Eastern exchanges that the Postmaster General has reversed a former decision as to the class of postal matter in which engravings, chromos and such articles should properly be placed The subject matter is not only of special interest to dealers, but to near and distant parties who desire to obtain these artistical productions Hereafter all such matter may be sent by mail at the rate of one cent for each two ounces, and in packages weighing less than four pounds It will be remembered that the former decision was to the effect that art publications were not printed matter within the meaning of the statute The reversal of the former opinion was procured it is stated by the joint efforts of the art dealers of Boston, New York and Philadelphia but the largest share of the benefit will be reaped by the small dealers, who order by mail, and thousands of the country purchasers, who receive their art publications in the same way It may be said that the really intellectual demand is with the latter class.

The Olympia Tribune has the returns from fourteen counties of Washington Territory, showing 3,311 votes for McFadden and 2,526 for Garfielde

At the late election in Klikitat county, W T , Rockland and Goldendale were voted for as the county seat, the former receiving 78 and the latter 77 votes.

Garfielde had a majority of seven votes for delegate in Yakima county. The whole Republican county ticket was elected, excepting the County Commissioners

A letter from Yakima City informs us that the weather was very cold and the hills were all covered with snow; that wheat was $1 per bushel, oats 75 cents, corn $1 per bushel, and potatoes 50 cents

The Republicans in Clarke county, W. T., have elected of their county ticket, Charles Brown, Auditor, Alvin Clarke, Representative, David R. Fales, County Commissioner, and Levi Farnsworth as Surveyor—the latter by one majority.

The Olympia Courier says "Several shrewd men of this city are quietly investing in property in and near town, expecting that when the branch railroad shall be constructed to Olympia, that they will triple their money, which they will do as sure as the sun will continue to rise and set. The rush of property, owing to the proposed fixing of the terminus near town, was succeeded by a corresponding depression in the demand of real estate from the disappointment in the location of the terminus, and investment now at the moderate stage of prices, is financially wise and will be rewarded with great gains.

An Amusing Court Scene.

The San Francisco Bulletin has the report of a trial in one of the Courts in that city, which, we are glad to see, is not a specimen of the dignity with which judicial proceedings are ordinarily conducted in California. We extract thus much

The case of Ole Bergson vs Mrs Mary Pleasants was tried before Justice Verdenal to day The defendant is one of the persons held to answer before the Grand Jury for complicity in the escape of the Brothertons from the county jail. She is out on $1,000 bail She is a colored woman, married, but doing business as a sole trader, keeps a thriving boarding and lodging house on Washington street, and is pretty well known in the community The plaintiff is a carpenter The suit was brought to recover the sum of $95 for work on a cheap structure on a lot of defendant's on the "Harvey Brown Tract."

The defense was a counterclaim for $200 for damages to the carpets, wall paper and furniture of the aforesaid cheap structure, alleged to have been caused by the rain which poured through the roof and sides thereof, owing to the negligent manner in which the carpenter work was done

There would not have been anything noteworthy connected with the case, had not Judge A M Heslep, counsel for the plaintiff, made it so. When the case was called for trial, he arose and stated that he had anticipated what the defense would be, and had framed his complaint as to expressly avoid such a defense. But not content with stating the dry facts he expected to prove the learned counsel went on to say that he knew the ingenuity of the defendant, he knew that she would make an ingenious defense, she was more ingenious than her counsel—"yes, more ingenious than I am, sir " The impassioned speaker continued, "I know her, sir, I have been ruined by her."

Mr O'Brien, the opposing counsel, interrupted the flow of burning invective by saying he thought "that was a frank admission " "It is, sir," was the rejoinder, "I admit it and I am not ashamed of it "

O'Brien—Are you now stating what you expect to prove?

Judge H.—Yes, sir, I am going to prove it [Order in Court]

The plaintiff took the stand and told a straight forward, simple story. The next witness was a man named Sorer, who had done carpenter work in the building Judge Heslep took him nervously over the items of the account. One question was as to the number of nails used The witness didn't know.

Judge H.—Guess at it—jump at it—get as near to it as you can.

Witness—About a dollar's worth

Judge H.—It is like drawing teeth to get anything out of you

O'Brien—Now I object to this way of—

The Court—Oh, let him go on

O Brien—Well, go on

The Tribune's correspondent sends the following from New Mexico

SANTA FE, N M , Nov 18th

C R Stanton, of California, arrived in this city yesterday, from the New Mexico and Arizona Diamond Fields, with a very fine collection of stones

Among them is one stone pronounced by those who profess to be judges, and which has stood all the tests brought to bear upon it, "a ruby" weighing sixteen carats

Parties here from New York familiar with the "cutting," state that "the stone" will not lose five carats in the cutting Its value by these parties is to day placed at $250,000 Mr Stanton has, he thinks, many stones of immense value, and some diamonds

This intelligence has created more excitement here than anything heretofore from the diamond fields.

The ruby referred to is very brilliant even in its rough state.

Guesses at the Future

In a short time there will be three railways spanning the continent from the Mississippi valley to the Pacific Ocean The Union and Central Pacific line has proved a great success as a business enterprise and has opened up to settlement a large area that otherwise would unquestionably have remained without population for years But a vast district of the region traversed by that line is an arid waste that is not and never will be capable of sustaining any considerable population The same may be said of the thirty second and thirty fifth parallel routes While large tracts of country adapted to agriculture and grazing will be made accessible by the construction of a road on either of these routes the great desert cannot be avoided In this respect the North Pacific route has an advantage over both the others There is no part of the country through which it passes that is not suitable for agriculture or for stock raising Its completion will therefore be the means of establishing a continuous line of settlements from the Wallamette valley to the settlements on the upper Mississippi which will extend laterally as the land nearest the road is occupied until in a very few years there will be a broad belt of population extending across the continent its western termination being in Oregon and Washington Territory

The law requires the road to be built to Portland With the two roads from the south—one each side of the Wallamet river—converging here, adding very largely to the trade of this city, and with the amount of capital already invested in permanent improvements in this city, it is quite certain that for a long time, at least Oregon will possess the trade not only of her own population, but of a large portion of the population north and east of her The new settlements that are soon to be made along the line of the North Pacific, will naturally come to this port with the produce of their farms and pastures and secure their supplies from our wholesale merchants Portland, once possessed of this trade, will be able to hold most of it

The construction of the North Pacific Railway is regarded by some as likely to injure Portland, by centering the commerce of the north coast at the terminal point on Puget Sound This, it seems to us, is a mistake The bulk of the local and inland trade of this entire region, is, and for years, if not always, will be, south of the Columbia river This stream is its natural outlet to the sea Whatever stimulates production in that district will increase the preponderance of its influence in determining the point where the commerce of the country is to concentrate All the railway enterprises of a local character, that have yet been started are on the south side of the North Pacific That section is likely to develop with greater rapidity and its natural channel of trade will be through the commercial metropolis of Oregon

Spoliation Claims

The dispatches give a somewhat extended statement of the proceedings of the Commission in regard to Mexican spoliation claims from which it appears evident that it is the intention of the Commission to leave nothing unsettled between the Mexican Government and our own, so far as these claims are concerned The period over which it is proposed to extend the investigation reaches back to the peace after the Mexican war The Commissioners call for all persons who have or think they have, cause of complaint on account of losses suffered at the hands of American citizens engaged in raids upon the Mexican frontier from 1848 down to date, to present their claims, and prepare for the investigation thereof, to the end that a full and satisfactory adjustment of all such matters may be reached

It would be greatly to the credit of both Republics, if, while this subject is in hand some efficient measures could be agreed upon for the suppression of these filibustering expeditions We say for both governments for it is difficult to say whether our citizens or those of the Mexican States have been most addicted to making forays across the border for plunder It is highly just and Christian to make such reparation for these outrages as is now proposed, but, after all, it is very inadequate satisfaction to the individuals who have suffered by them, that tardy justice offers redress after a lapse of ten to twenty years

Nothing but the knowledge among the citizens of both Mexico and the United States that the persons who embark in these marauding enterprises are of a class that never submit to the ordinary restraints of society and for the greatest part, irresponsible vagabonds, has kept the matter from assuming a serious aspect long since The ounce of prevention is needed now as badly as the pound of cure

In another column appear the particulars of the destruction of the woolen mills at Oregon City by fire This will be a great calamity to the town and to the State The loss of the same amount of property, of almost any other description would be felt less severely than the loss of this establishment It is not simply the annihilation of a large amount of wealth but the prostration of one of the most important enterprises in the development of our young State

The disaster falls with peculiar weight upon those who relied upon their daily earnings as employes in the mill for a livelihood Persons who have no trade or occupation, except that of which they are deprived by this fire will find it impossible to obtain employment again immediately because of the limited demand for skilled labor of that kind in the State Such persons, as well as the proprietors, have the sympathy of the entire community

There can be no reasonable doubt from all we can learn, that the fire was purposely set The place when it first broke out together with other circumstances in connection with its discovery, makes it impossible to account for it upon any other hypothesis than that of incendiarism

The Boston Advertiser says nearly every fire insurance company in that city has found its losses too much for it and that few of them will survive The average of those companies will pay about fifty per cent of their policies Some will not pay over twenty per cent and a few will pay in full Several had but a small amount of risks in the burned district and these, of course will continue on

The New York Tribune contains a statement of the losses of various insurance companies by the Boston fire from which it appears that New York companies lost $7 768 500 Connecticut $2 010 000 Rhode Island, $890 000 England $1 700 000 The exact loss sustained by Boston Companies is not ascertained but exceeds $20 000 000

Civil Service Reform

The Stockton Independent has an article under the above heading suggested by President Grant's reply to the delegation of politicians who recently waited upon him for the purpose of dictating his appointments from which we extract the following sensible remarks

It is apparent that President Grant is determined to enforce the rules heretofore adopted to govern the civil service appointments of the Government and if, as reported the professional politicians are dissatisfied with his course the people have great reason to rejoice that at the present time we have a person in the Presidential chair who fully realizes the importance of a reform in this matter and who also possesses the necessary firmness to carry it out

Our army and navy officers are educated at the Government's expense for their respective positions and after once entering the service are only removed for cause They are sure of retaining their present grade as long as they prove themselves to be competent and trustworthy and at the same time they have every inducement to encourage them to aspire for higher positions if they can show themselves to be possessed of the necessary ability

* * * * *

Now the army and navy are very important branches of the Government but the mission of this Republic is peace and there is no reason why we should pay so much attention to the education of young men for the exigencies of war while utterly neglecting to secure competent persons for the civil service of the Government Our people need not fear that their Government will ever be overthrown by any foreign power and if ever it should pass away as have the many Republics which have preceded it the cause of its fall will be attributed to the failure in the administration of its civil service rather than to any failure to resist the attacks of foreign powers

* * * * *

The civil service reform inaugurated by President Grant promises to do away with many existing evils, and notwithstanding the complaints of the office seekers who wish to be rewarded for their services to the party now in power we believe the people will be pleased with this proposed change

We notice that the OREGONIAN publishes official returns from Umatilla county by which it appears the Greeley ticket received a plurality of 9 votes There is some mistake about this The official returns on file in the Secretary's office show that the county went for Grant by a plurality of 7 votes —Statesman

The returns we published were taken from the records at Pendleton the county seat of Umatilla county and were of course supposed to be accurate We presume however, there was some error in copying, as the facilities of the Statesman for obtaining correct information render it very improbable that the mistake occurred in that office So Greeley has not carried Umatilla county The little thirty votes claimed in Baker, constitute the only majority the Democracy can boast of in Eastern Oregon

The official Republican majority in New York is stated to be 56 695 The Democratic majority at the last Presidential election was just 10 000 The change in favor of the Republicans in four years is 66,695 Between thirty two and thirty three thousand votes of this change took place in the city of New York Grant's majority outside of the city in 1868, was about 50 000 This year it is about 80,000

The Tribune of the 13th has this item

Further returns from Oregon make Grant's majority 3 000 in that State but the Democratic counties yet to be heard from will reduce those figures considerably

Those figures have not been reduced so very considerably The only reduction has been an increase of about 800

The Yreka Journal is right That Centennial appropriation was made, as appears from the OREGONIAN of Nov 7th We retract Oregon is entitled to the credit of leading off

Tennessee gives Greeley a majority of 8 570 votes Maynard, Republican candidate at large for Congressman, is elected by a plurality of over 15 000

Designs for the Centennial Exhibition

The association of architects of San Francisco at last meeting, had under consideration the matter of a plan of awarding premiums for designs for the Centennial Exhibition Building, to be suggested to the National Commission and adopted the following resolutions

Resolved As we pride ourselves upon enjoying equal rights and equal privileges, and that the road to fortune and fame, to honor and distinction in our great country is open equally to all both rich and poor high and low that we will once in one hundred years, practice what we preach and make it possible for the poor but capable and deserving architects of our great country to once in all their lives enjoy the privilege of competing with their more fortunate brethren in designing for the great Centennial Exhibition building for 1876 by so arranging the Competition Fund that it shall be

First—Ample in amount to admit of awarding a suitable sum of money to each and every bona fide competitor in the United States and Territories who shall present a design within the proper time for competition and

Second—That the awards shall be divided up in amounts, according to the merit of each design No previously fixed amount to any one design, and no previous limiting the number of premiums to be allowed

The principal test to be that the design shall be capable of a practical application to the purpose for which the building is intended and it is further

Resolved and declared as the sense of this meeting that as everything depends upon the fitness, ability and honesty of the men selected for the purpose of arranging all the details of the competition and awards we await with great solicitude the announcement of the same

We hope and believe that our worthy Commissioners for the Pacific Coast will lose no opportunity and spare no pains in their endeavors to place the competition upon such a basis as shall be in keeping with the great event it is to assist in commemorating All of which is respectfully submitted

ARKANSAS STILL UNSETTLED —A dispatch from Little Rock under date of Nov 12th says

Forty four counties heard from give Brooks 3 750 majority at the regular polls A large number of legal voters who were stricken from the registration books held special polls, and cast their votes under the provisions of the Enforcement act Counting the votes at these special polls increases the majority for Greeley and Brooks to 6 350 Twenty counties are yet to be heard from all of which excepting four will give Liberal majorities In some the majorities will be very large, and will swell the Liberal majority (making allowances for Minstrel frauds) to 10 000 At the regular polls all the appliances for fraud were resorted to including ballot box stuffing, repeating and throwing out votes Missouri Township Clark county having a registered vote of 73 returned a majority for the Clayton Baxter ticket of 117 Notwithstanding all these frauds the Liberal ticket has been triumphantly elected

Both political parties continue to claim the State but according to the official returns Baxter is elected Outside polls were held in a number of counties and by counting these Brooks is elected

SETTLED —The papers a few days ago publish ... account of a man running away from the ... by leaving his wife here and taking another ... woman with him to Sacramento where he was ... overtaken by his indignant spouse on the cars ... the woman who was flying with him made to ... take a back seat in the cars on which the three ... were borne swiftly toward the rising sun It turns ... out however, that the man who went away took ... his wife with him, and that the woman who followed him was one who claimed that he had promised to marry her and she did not like so to be left ... all forlorn So she gathered up her worldly goods, and taking with her a "pledge" of the engagement as she said, in the shape of a child three or four years old, took the cars as reported and intercepted the husband and gay deceiver at Sacramento There she started East with the couple and by the time the train arrived at a station called Newcastle, in the eastern part of California, she had convinced him of the validity of her claim upon him to the extent that he made her a suitable compensation in dollars and cents for the loss of her affections and the bruises of her heart. Thus the affair which must have placed the married couple in a very embarrassing position was amicably settled, and the woman who had travelled so far for satisfaction, received it and allowed the man and his wife to go on their way unmolested

RIGHT OF WAY —In the case of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad Company vs the O S N Co , pending in the Circuit Court of this county, on Saturday last, the demurrer to plaintiff's complaint was overruled and defendant required to answer during the day Answer filed only claiming value and damages for thirty feet wide, and denying the right to appropriate the other thirty feet in width because as alleged, it is a part of sixty feet in width necessary in operating a portage road on the alleged line of their steamboat transportation This insures to the Salt Lake Railroad Company the right of way at the Cascades thirty feet in width at least on payment of such damages as a jury may assess.

ON THE WAY —The steamship Oriflamme sailed from San Francisco for this port last Saturday morning The following passengers are on board Col Stone, U S A, Dr Humphrey, U S A, Mrs M F Miller and servant, L W Dougherty, Miss F ..., John Davis John West, Col Larabee, S ... Sawyer, F P Ravesies, Mrs Condill, L Belfis, wife and child, Capt Miller, U S A, Lieut Chapin, U S A, S J Katz and brother, Frank Percy Jos ... Miss Emilbee, Thomas Davis, J W Ragsdale, wife and child, R N Snell, Mrs A Devlin, Mrs W B Spera, Wm Wyllie.

SURVEYING PARTY —The Northern Pacific Railroad party, who have been engaged for the last two weeks in running a preliminary line between Sandy and East Portland, up to last Friday evening reached a point within a few miles of that place. They were, however, ordered back about eight miles along the line to survey a new route, as the one which had been run was found to be too elevated In the course of a few days the line will be located through to East Portland, and the party then will go into winter quarters

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE —On last Friday evening three ladies entered a drygoods store on First street in this city, one of them wearing a set of furs of the value of $75 While she was doing some trading she laid her muff a very fine article, on the counter, there being some other persons in the store at the same time Taking her eyes from the muff for a few moments it very mysteriously disappeared and could no where be found

BLOWN UP —We learn that on last Friday, Tommy, a little son of S D Pope, of Oregon City, got hold of a can containing powder, in his father's store, and placed it on the stove when no one else was present Of course the powder exploded, and the little fellow's face and hands were seriously burned It is feared that he will be disfigured for life, and perhaps lose his eyesight by the accident.

METEOR.—A most beautiful meteor was observed in the southern heavens a few nights ago It was seen for the space of a few seconds, travelling from the west towards the east with wonderful velocity Just before disappearing, the meteor exploded like a sky rocket, displaying the colors of the prism. The exploded fragments scattered away into space and disappeared from view

SCHOOL TAXES —The Clerk of School District No 1, is still receiving school taxes at his office on Stark street, on the assessment for the current year The total levy amounts to $35,219 The assessment shows a total valuation in the District (city of Portland) of $8,797,720, from which was deducted for indebtedness $1,753,720, leaving $7,044,000, from which to collect the taxes

ANOTHER LOCOMOTIVE —By the brig Orient has arrived from San Francisco another large, first class locomotive and tender They will be used on the east side road. The locomotive will be placed on the wharf to day, and taken to the car shops without delay, and be put in a condition to perform active service

ADJOURNED —The County Court was to have held a special session last Saturday afternoon, principally for the purpose of inspecting the various plans submitted for the iron railing to surround the Court House block The Court adjourned until the 2d of December without transacting any business

FOUNDATION COMMENCED —Work on the foundation for the new brick building of Mr Perkins, at the corner of A and North Front, has been commenced The intention is to complete the foundation wall on the eastern end, so that work can proceed next spring regardless of the stage of water.

ARRESTED —A man named Dawlan was arrested at Oregon City on Sunday upon suspicion of having set fire to the woolen mills at that place We are informed by our correspondent that he is a discharged workman at the mills, and has been heard to make threats

BRIG ORIENT —The brig Orient arrived at this port yesterday morning from Astoria She came to this port from San Francisco with a large general assortment of freight At present the Orient is discharging cargo at the east side wharf

THE FIRE AT OREGON CITY.

Loss $250,000—Insurance only $65,000

Our regular correspondent at Oregon City furnishes the following details of the destruction of the Oregon City Woolen Factory s large mills

FIRST DISCOVERY OF THE FIRE

On last Saturday morning about twenty minutes past three o clock the daughter of Mr Shattuck of the Phœnix Hotel which is directly opposite the Woolen Factory awoke her father and told him the factory was on fire Mr S immediately ran down stairs and first gave the alarm It appears that the watchman on discovering the fire ran immediately to the belfry to ring the alarm bell, but found the rope out

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT OUT

The alarm bell of the fire company, however soon called out the members of the Fire Department and roused the sleeping citizens but before a stream could be thrown on the building, the flames had burst through the roof in nearly the center of the factory, and owing to the combustible nature of the material were of a white heat, and it was evident to all the spectators the whole

BUILDING WAS DOOMED

and that the attention and effort of the Fire Department and citizens ought to be concentrated in endeavoring to save the surrounding buildings and so

SAVE THE BALANCE OF THE CITY

To the honor and credit of the brave firemen, this was accomplished with the loss only of one single building —a lager beer saloon—which, by order of the Chief Engineer, Sidney Richardson, was ordered to be pulled down by the Hook and Ladder Company But before this was accomplished the northern end of the Factory, close to which was a tank containing six or seven hundred gallons of oil, fell with a crash, and there being only a width of about twelve feet between the Factory and the saloon, the falling wall crushed the building to the ground and saved the firemen further trouble in its demolition

A FIREMAN CRUSHED

Mr Geo Blackwell, member of the Hook and Ladder Company, was most unfortunately unable to retreat in time, and was severely, but not, we trust, fatally hurt by the falling wall His forehead was cut by a brick, and his back seriously injured.

BURNING LIKE OIL.

From the combustible and greasy nature of the contents of the mill, the flames glowed with a white heat, and it was only by superhuman exertions that the Phœnix Hotel and Cliff House were saved from the devouring element.

FIGHTING THE FLAMES

Col W. White owner of the Cliff House, stood on the balcony in front of the second story with hose in hand, attached to the house, playing a stream to quench the intense heat, and frequently raised the nozzle over his head in order to drench himself from head to foot, to enable him to keep his post

DYE AND WOOL HOUSE SAVED

It is most extraordinary how the dye and wool houses were saved In the wool house—which is all of wood—was over $10,000 worth of wool, and the distance was not more than fifty feet from the burning Factory.

PROPITIOUS ELEMENTS.

Fortunately, the night was calm, and, although burning cinders were found this morning a mile and a half from the scene of the fire, on account of a drizzly rain accompanied by a slight frost, not a roof of any other building took fire.

THE WATCHMAN'S STORY

J D Slover, the watchman of the Factory says that about 9 o'clock on the preceding evening, he found his watch dog (a dog that would not allow even an employe of the mill to enter after dark without being called off by his master) lying poisoned by the boiler Mr Theodore Clarke, hose finisher, happening there at the time and seeing the condition of the watch dog, ran to get a bottle of oil to give him, but it was too late—poor Tray died At 2 o clock, Mr Slover says he sounded the bell, as is his duty every hour About half past two, he started to go his rounds and went out to the dye house—which is an out house separate from the main building After looking around, he went by a back door into the mill, and proceeded to the belfry to go upstairs As soon as he reached the second story, he heard a noise as of some one going down the steps. He proceeded to the upper story, and there, he says, he saw fire had been started in three different places Running to the back stairway, he saw three men, and hallooed to them that the place was on fire, and begged them to come and assist him to get the hose out to extinguish it, Instead of complying with his request, Mr Slover says, they immediately ran off He also stated, that when he ran to where the hose was kept, he found one section removed, and by the time he was able to procure and connect an extra section, he had barely time to place it in position.

THE CITY PREPARES ITSELF.

The fire by this time had spread so rapidly, that it was evident no human effort could save the Factory, and it was generally conceded that the Cliff House must inevitably follow , and so general was this expectation, that merchants and others two blocks below commenced preparations to move their goods Thanks to a kind Providence and the noble firemen, however, the general conflagration of the city was prevented

ORIGIN OF THE FIRE.

As to the origin of the fire, opinion is very much diversified Many believe it was an act of incendiarism, on account of the employment of Chinese labor, others again say it is very possible it occurred from spontaneous combustion as there are strong acids used in dyeing the wool, which is naturally oily, and the combination is such as might after a certain time, lead to this result There is no question however, but that a very strong prejudice exists in the community against the employment of Chinamen, and one hears it often freely expressed

LOSS AND INSURANCE

It is said the total loss will not be short of $250,000, and the insurance is $65,000, divided between the Imperial and Phœnix

BUSINESS OF THE MILLS

The Commercial Reporter of last week gave the following account of the organization and operations of the company owning the ill fated factory "The Oregon City Manufacturing Company was organized in February, 1864, with a capital stock of $60 000 which, in June, was increased to $100,000 The company commenced operations in July, 1865, with three sets of machinery, which have been added to till their number now reaches eight The consumption of wool has increased until it is now 300,000 pounds per annum The production is about 40 000 yards per month consisting of cassimeres, tweeds, flannels, blankets yarns, etc There are about 150 hands employed at an expense of over $6 000 per month The reputation of the goods manufactured is second to none in the United States, and is considered by many competent judges to be superior.

In 1869 they received the medal in the Mechanics' Institute, San Francisco, and again in 1871 the first premium was bestowed on them for their superior make of cassimeres Great credit is due the company for their enterprise for in addition to their already large manufacturing business they have added another very important branch, which will give employment to a large number of hands, besides retaining large sums of money in our midst which would be sent abroad The new branch is that of manufacturing clothing, and for that purpose they have secured the services of experienced cutters All kinds of clothing will be manufactured The well known reputation of the fabrics manufactured by the company is a sufficient guarantee that all clothing manufactured will be superior to the general average of the best imported The principal owners of the mill are Jacob Brothers, Oregon City Brown Brothers & Co , San Francisco, W S Ladd Portland The present officers are R Jacobs President I Jacobs Vice President; W S Ladd, Treasurer, M A Stratton, Secretary

AMUSEMENTS

Miss Edith O Gorman will deliver her farewell lecture this evening at the new Masonic Hall Her subject will be on this occasion the 'Mysteries of the Confessional the Mass and its Ceremonies This will be the last lecture in this city, as Miss O Gorman contemplates taking her departure on the next steamer for San Francisco

The performances of the past week at the Oro Fino Theater closed on Saturday evening with 'Jack Cade or the Bondman of Kent, Mr Waldron assuming the title role—Edwin Forrest's greatest character That satisfaction was given the fact that that gentleman was called before the curtain several times is sufficient to show that his performance of Jack Cade was a masterly piece of acting The same play will be repeated this evening and several novelties will be presented during the week

IN ADVANCE —It is evident that Steel & Co stationers, do not intend to be behind time They have on hand already a supply of elegant diaries for 1873, with "all the modern improvements

FASHIONABLE NOTES

Seal skin still holds its own as the fashionable fur

One o clock seems to be the fashionable hour for weddings this season

The styles in ladies' wraps are infinite, but the Dolman is the great rage just now

Long trained reception dresses are cut in blocks or points at the bottom, a la Josephine

The latest thing in fruit dishes is a huge silver watermelon cut in points and lined with gold

The most fashionable opera cloaks are made of point lace with a lining of some brightly tinted silk

The most fashionable wedding cards now a days are quite small the envelope being without a monogram

The light colored sacks now worn on the promenade by ladies were intended and are only appropriate for carriage wear

The red leather belts worn for the past six months by our fashionable women are going out of style quite as rapidly as they came in

Ladies coiffures have a strong upward tendency and a new style of bonnets has been inaugurated to meet the exigencies of the occasion

Lace shawls appear to be again in style At the opera we have noticed many of white lace worn with fine effect over light colored silks

Embroidered house jackets are in favor this autumn Those lined with silk and made with quilted revers are perhaps the most fashionable

Parisian bonnets are difficult to describe and still more difficult to imitate Not one half the so called imported bonnets sold at fashionable Broadway milliners ever came from the French capital

Humbug Dissected

Quaint old Burton has favored us with an "Anatomy of Melancholy but who shall dissect the melancholy fallacies and fibs with which knaves and fanatics endeavor to delude the sick and feeble of this generation Charlatans through the newspaper press recommend to the strengthless victim of disease convulsing purgatives, which if taken are sure to turn his debilitated system almost inside out, and sink him into the uttermost depths of helplessness and despondency! Fanatics on the other hand, assure the prostrate patient that no medicine containing a diffusive stimulant ought to pass his lips If he elects to be guided by the advice of impostors and lunatics, let him make his will and order his coffin; but if there is a spark of common sense in his composition, let him resort in his extremity to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most potent of vegetable tonics and alteratives, the purest and most entirely wholesome of medicated stimulants The wonderful cures of dyspepsia, biliousness, rheumatism physical prostration and malarious fevers which this rare specific has effected during the last twenty-two years are the most conclusive answers that can be given to the enemies of mankind who offer volcanic cathartics as tonics, and to the mistaken beings who would refuse a medicinal stimulant to a poor, broken-down invalid, who is literally dying by inches for the want of judicious stimulation Temperance, properly understood, countenances no such folly as this The laws enacted to put down the abhorrent vice of drunkenness provide for the sale of brandy, whisky and other liquors as medicines, and if these adulterated liquors of trade are accepted by temperance legislators as remedies what ought to be the general verdict of the temperance public as regards the peerless vegetable tonic based upon a stimulant absolutely pure ?

PLANTATION BITTERS!

S. T.--1860--X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

Stonewall Jackson—A Singular Story

The following is from General Revere's new book "Keel and Saddle" General Revere is a descendant of Paul Revere of the "Midnight ride to Lexington" and dedicates his book to two near relatives, nephews or cousins Major Paul J Revere who fell at Gettysburg and Surgeon E H Revere killed at Antietam

Arriving at New Orleans in 1852 I was soon in my way up the Mississippi and Ohio Among my fellow passengers on the steamer was Lieutenant Thomas J Jackson of the United States army who seemed at first a remarkably quiet reserved although very intelligent, officer and with whom I soon became acquainted for there is everywhere a sort of camaraderie among officers of the two services which attract them to each other in a crowd of strangers For several days the inland voyage continued and our nights were were partly spent upon the hurricane deck of of the steamer engaged in conversation One of these conversations was so peculiar that it fixed itself in my memory and subsequent events proved it worthy of record, although I confess I hesitate to put in writing anything which seems to border so nearly on the marvelous

One clear starlight night, as we glided along the calm river, our conversation turned upon the firmament and its countless orbs that looked down upon us. Jackson asked me if I had ever been induced to take a flight from the study of nautical astronomy practiced by all naval officers into the realms of astrology I replied that I had always been interested, more or less in those mathematical studies required in nautical calculations and that, from the exact rules demanded for working the various problems of the ephemeris, I had sometimes, to amuse the idle hours of a sea life worked out the nativities of my shipmates I had even taken Zadkiel's almanac, and used his rules, but without believing in the science of judicial astrology Jackson however was not so incredulous although it was evident that he had not then decided fully within himself as to the truth or falsehood of this exploded science

Before we parted at Pittsburg a day or two after this conversation, I had given Jackson the necessary data for calculating a horoscope and in the course of a few months I received from him a letter, which I preserved, inclosing a scheme of my nativity As any one who may have calculated these schemes by the rules must know, a horoscope may be interpreted in various, even contradictory terms, by different persons, and this was no exception to the rule The only reason I had for remembering it at all was, that our destinies seemed to run in parallel lines, and so far, it was remarkable It was this peculiarity that caused Jackson to communicate with me, and the reason why I laid it carefully aside for re-examination.

The several planets were placed in their respective houses above and below the horizon, and Saturn being near the meridian, and approaching a square with the moon, great danger was to be apprehended by the native at the period when the aspect became complete Mars also bore a threatening aspect, while Jupiter was below the horizon, and semi-sextile, which was not altogether unfavorable There was no trine, and the sextile was weak Altogether, from the evil aspect of the square of Saturn, which threatened an opposition—that most dreaded of all the evil aspects of heavens—the scheme was quite dangerous and malign The precise time and nature of the threatened danger requiring a second calculation, accompanied the scheme, prognosticating the culmination of the malign aspect within some ten years or during the first days of May, 1863, at which time the native ran great risk of life and fortunes, but, in case he survived the peril, the ominous period would never again recur

In his letter Jackson says "I have gone over these calculations several times, as their result is almost an exact reproduction of my own * * * It is clear to me that we shall both be exposed to a common danger at the time indicated" Having little faith in the almost forgotten and altogether repudiated science of astrology, I took little heed of either his scheme of nativity or his letter, regarding the former as ingenious, but as merely a proof of an ardent and somewhat enthusiastic temperament, while I little imagined, at that time, that the, rather unpolished and rugged exterior of Lieutenant Jackson concealed a character destined to become famous among his countrymen

I served in the army of 1861-'63 until after the battle of Chancellorsville, participating in all its important engagements, and the greater part of the time commanding a brigade. At the battle above named I was an involuntary witness of an event which had an important bearing on the issue of the war, and which had been the subject of prolonged controversy. I refer to the death of Stonewall Jackson The circumstances under which I acquired the right to give testimony in the matter were somewhat remarkable, and here is a full statement of them. The left of my brigade line lay near the plank road at Chancellorsville, and, after night had fallen, I rode forward, according to my invariable habit, to inspect my picket line The moon had risen and partially illuminated the woods I began my inspection on the right of the picket line progressing gradually to the left where I stopped to rectify the post of a sentinel not far from the plank road While thus engaged I heard the sound of hoofs from the direction of the enemy's line, and paused to listen. Soon a cavalcade appeared approaching us. The foremost horseman detached himself from the main body, which halted not far from us, and, riding cautiously nearer seemed to try to pierce the gloom He was so close to us that the soldier nearest me leveled his rifle for a shot at him, but I forbade him, as I did not wish to have our position revealed, and it would have been useless to kill the man, whom I judged to be a staff officer making a reconnoissance

Having completed his observations, this person soon rejoined the group in his rear and all returned at a gallop The clatter of hoofs soon ceased to be audible, and the silence of the night was unbroken save by the melancholy cries of the whippoorwill, which were heard in one continued wail, like spirit voices, when the horizon was lighted up by a sudden flash in the direction of the enemy, succeeded by the well known rattle of a volley of musketry from at least a battalion A second volley quickly followed the first, and I heard cries in the same direction Fearing that some of our troops might be in that locality, and that there was danger of our firing upon friends, I left my orderly and rode toward the Confederate lines A riderless horse dashed past me toward our lines, and I reined up in presence of a group of several persons, gathered around a man lying on the ground, apparently badly wounded I saw at once that these were Confederate officers, and visions of the Libby began to flit through my mind, but reflecting that I was well armed and mounted, and that I had on the great coat of a private soldier, such as was worn by both parties, I sat still regarding the group in silence, but prepared to use either my spurs or my saber, as the occasion might demand The silence was broken by one of the Confederates, who appeared to regard me with astonishment, then, speaking in a tone of authority, he ordered me to "ride up there and see what troops those were" indicating the rebel position I instantly made a gesture of assent and rode slowly in the direction indicated until out of sight of the group, then made a circuit round it and returned within my own lines Just as I had answered the challenge of our picket, the section of our artillery post on the plank road began firing, and I could plainly hear the grape crashing through the trees near the spot occupied by the group of Confederate officers.

About a fortnight afterward I saw a Richmond newspaper at the camp at Falmouth, in which were detailed the circumstances of the death of Stonewall Jackson These left no doubt in my own mind that the person I had seen lying on the ground was the officer, and that his singular prediction—mentioned previously—had been verified The following is an extract from the newspaper account "General Jackson, having gone some distance in front of his line on Saturday evening was returning about 8 o clock, attended by his staff The cavalcade was in the darkness mistaken for a body of the enemy's cavalry, and fired on by a regiment of his own corps Then, after detailing what took place after the General fell from his horse the account proceeds 'The turnpike was utterly deserted with the exceptions of Captains Wilbourn and Wynn but, in the skirting of the thicket on the left some person was observed by the side of the wood sitting his horse motionless and silent The unknown individual was clad in a dark dress which strongly resembled the Federal uniform, but it seemed impossible that he could have penetrated to that spot without being discovered and what followed seemed to prove that he belonged to the Confederates Captain Wilbourn directed him to ride up there and see what troops those were—the men who fired on Jackson—and the stranger rode slowly in the direction pointed out but never returned with any answer Who this silent personage was is left to posterity to [illegible]

Jackson's death happened in strange coincidence with this horoscopic prediction made years before but the coincidence was I believe merely fortuitous and I mention it here only to show what mysterious givings out we sometimes experience in life

Lynch Law and Rich "Finds" in South African Diamond Fields

On Monday last twelve of Mr Arthur Driver's kafirs were taken into custody charged by their masters with the theft of diamonds. One of the kafirs peached and this led to a search when it transpired the kafirs had stolen at least twenty five diamonds This accounts in a great measure for the falling off in the amount of the diggers profits

The finds continue good An off colored diamond of 98 carats, without flaw of any kind was found by Mr Anthony Dold, at Du toitspan A 70 carat stone is also reported to have been turned out at the "Pan" Mr Lidecamp from Calcdon, reports the following list of his finds during a fortnight At Old De Beer's one diamond (off colored and free from blemish) of 63 carats, at Colesberg Kopje, one of 26, one of 11¾, (white), one of 10¼, one of 10 carats and five smaller ones Not a bad fortnight's work, by any means

The mails from Dutoitspan to Capetown it appears are carried in an open cart with a single driver in common gunny bags and recently one of these bags, containing $200 000 worth of diamonds was jolted out of the cart, picked up by a Hottentot, left by him in charge of two Dutch diggers, and by them surrendered on demand! The Mercury also relates that

On Tuesday evening the 16th a large concourse of diggers irritated by the increased number of thefts of diamonds in consequence of the inducements held out to native servants by unprincipled men—principally connected with low canteens—visited several parts of the camp (New Rush) for the expressed purpose of administering Lynch law They proceeded in the first place to a tent belonging to some Indian coolies, who were strongly suspected of being in league with certain kafir servants as dishonest as themselves The tent lines were speedily loosened and the property set on fire and completely destroyed, not, however, before one of the coolies had been secured

A search for diamonds was made, and the result showed that the suspicions of the diggers were not altogether groundless What number of diamonds were found, or whether they were found in the tent or about the person of the coolie we have not been able to ascertain but the conclusion arrived at was that the man had obtained them by dishonest means, and should be punished accordingly He was then stripped, flogged and ignominiously kicked out of the camp amid the scoffing of the multitude

On Wednesday evening several thousand diggers preceded by an amateur band, administered the same kind of lynch law in two or three other similar cases

School Teachers

An article in the November number of the California Teacher, has this

"Begin well and you will end well, for a good and proper beginning implies the end From our public schools must emanate generations whose minds are developed to spontaneous self activity who have a clear definite understanding of the great objects of life, who can determine for themselves and not independently

But the first condition to secure these results are educative teachers—teachers who exert an ennobling influence over their pupils' minds, sensibilities, and volition. Such an influence, however, cannot be exerted without the sincere love for the welfare of the children, without a deep interest for their physical and mental development, and without a true enthusiasm for the higher objects of education Those are the indispensible requirements which teachers of elementary classes must possess, for they unquestionably perform the most difficult and most onerous part of the educational work At this stage children must be captivated and made teachable and susceptible for the higher branches of instruction. If the kind of instruction given at this stage of development is not made effectual, impressive, and lasting, if the teacher does not completely control his pupils by his manner of instruction, enabling them to follow attentively the train of thought presented, and if they do not acquire under his tutelage that indispensable ability to direct and fix firmly their minds on the subject with which they are engaged, they must necessarily become the victims of distraction and dreams, too lazy to think and too lazy to act

Can any one who professes to know anything whatever of educational matters seriously question the validity and importance of Section 1,687 of the new School law? The section referred to reads as follows. In cities having graded schools beginners shall be taught for the first two years by teachers who have at least four years' experience, and such teachers shall rank in point of salary with those of the first grade Certainly not The only thing strange in the matter is that it has not long ago been enacted and enforced Years after years complaints were made that pupils were not sufficiently prepared to do the work of higher grades, and yet few were willing to admit that the greatest and most irreparable mistake was made at the beginning, at the outset, by entrusting our beginners to young inexperienced teachers"

PRESIDENT THIERS—Speaking of Thiers proposing to resign the Presidency of France, on account of the vote of confidence not passing the Assembly by as large a majority as he thought it should have received, the San Francisco Bulletin thoughtfully remarks

As an old man, he may exhibit what at first sight may appear as undue petulance But he has in his career of President exhibited a fidelity to the Republic which must command respect, though unexpected from his former record That he is surrounded with difficulties from the warring and jarring elements of which the Assembly is composed is patent It is also true that at this critical period he appears from his integrity of purpose, and his known Conservatism to be recognized as the only man who can govern France with any degree of satisfaction Under these circumstances it may be hoped that with the pressure brought to bear upon him he will see the necessity, if not so much for his own sake, for that of France of reconsidering his determination While it is conceded among all parties in France, that a Republic is now the only possible form of government, the retirement of Thiers would create a crisis, the issue of which it is difficult to foretell

STRANGE INSTANCE OF PRESENTIMENT—A gentleman who is temporarily absent from home and stopping in the city, relates to us that after retiring to bed night before last and before going to sleep, he seemed all at once to be in a room at home Everything about the room seemed as real and tangible as if he were that moment in it It could not be a dream because he had never for a moment lost his consciousness Upon a bed in the room lay his brother, apparently very pale, and leaning over the bed stood his mother in great seeming distress. All day yesterday he could not banish the incident from his mind, and last night came the sequel He received a letter from home stating that his brother had fallen from a high window, and ever since had lain in an unconscious state in the room which he had so plainly seen the night before, and that his mother had scarcely left his bedside We have this statement from a gentleman of intelligence and a disbeliever in all spiritual manifestations.—Des Moines (Ia) Register

The Mansard Roof an Element of Danger.

[From the New York Commercial Advertiser]

One of the most eminent architects in the city expressed his opinion of mansard roofs in the terse remark that we should fire proof structures and then load them with a lumber yard and in this remark lies the full significance of the Boston fire It was the mansard roofs which did the business Away up in the air beyond the reach of streams of water, these frail and fair structures were all ablaze, and the flames, fanned by the light breeze at first curled and twined around the delicate ornamentations and quickly spread from one housetop to another Then the wind as it increased bore the blazing fragments across streets and squares and set a hundred mansards aflame at once The burning timbers fell in upon the floors They turned away dropping one upon another the fire fed by the stores of rich goods until each massive stone structure became a very volcano Then the solid granite blocks heated melted crumbled away and even exploded with a noise like that made by gunpowder It is the substantial fire-proof part of Boston that now lies in ruin Stores and warehouses on which business architecture had done its best or worst are swept away Men had raised these piles for all time, and they might have stood for centuries But when the granite walls were raised they lined the upper part with wooden cornices or threw above the walls a fanciful and treacherous higher story of fragile woodwork veneered with slate or some "fire proof composition, and so prepared the very material on which this conflagration fed and by which its strength and ferocity were maintained It needed not this fire to prove that brick structures are better than those of stone or iron in their power of resistance to fire But we are taught that the most solid stone loses all its cohesion when exposed to a fierce flame and henceforth those who build wisely will know at least one form of hazard they need not incur The awful warning of this conflagration is, however, against the mansard roof hundreds of acres of which surmount and overtop the noblest buildings in this city Not only are whole blocks of residences turned out with this dangerous addition, but all over the business part of this city these roofs are most dangerously prevalent They are above the ordinary reach of the fire engine streams, and once in a blaze the wind takes the burning fragments to other roofs and scatters the fire in all directions No more ingenious device for spreading a conflagration can be conceived, and the first grand illustration of its terrible utility as a means of destruction is made at a cost of $100,000,000 Stringent laws forbid the erection of a wooden building on the ground, no matter how insignificant it may be, but law looks on smilingly while these top lofty fire traps are built up and covered with these fanciful ornamentation Has New York, by some fearful visitation of fire, to be baptized into the new faith that no faith is to be reposed in this revamped invention? Are imposing structures to be reared month after month and all crowned with this peril? When Chicago was destroyed men charged the immense extent of the fire to wood and wind, and said by no means could a similar disaster befall New York But this Boston disaster disabuses people of this impression There are piles of lumber on each side of the city where a fire might start, and rickety rookeries to lead the flames on toward those more imposing buildings with these mansard crowns, whose fluttering wood work would soon carry the flames across the town. Let us be warned in time

BRIDGING THE CHASM—The people of the little California town of Gilroy set a pleasant example a few days ago Pursuant to an agreement between the leading politicians, men of both parties met to celebrate the result of the Presidential election In the evening bonfires were kindled, a procession was formed, good natured mottoes were displayed, a band played patriotic music, and conciliatory speeches were made by late antagonists on the stump Crowds of men women and children filled the sidewalks, enjoying the novel celebration, and cheers for Grant and Greeley, for the Republicans and Democrats of Gilroy, went up in hearty unison. Finally, prominent citizens were serenaded, and everybody went to bed in good humor —S F Bulletin

The official vote of Wasco county has at last been received and counted and is as follows For Greeley Electors—N. H Gates 313, Geo R Helms, 314, E D Shattuck 311 For Grant Electors—A B Meacham 392, W D Hare, 392, James Gazley, 392 Thus it will be seen that the county went for Grant by 78 majority The O Conor ticket received 28 votes —Mountaineer

Burning of the Oregon City Woolen Mills

The destruction of these mills a full detailed account of which will be found elsewhere in this paper will prove a serious loss to our State, by the drawback on one of our most flourishing, and finest home enterprises For years the products of these mills have ranked as first class in competition with the manufactures of the best and oldest establishments of the kind in the country Under the immediate supervision of the firm of Jacobs Bros they flourished and added to the reputation of our State for the good quality of its productions But in an hour this fine establishment is reduced to ashes Thousands of dollars must go out of our State for goods which would otherwise have remained among us Other thousands must go to replace the splendid machinery which has been destroyed A hundred or more persons who had been employed in the mills for longer or shorter periods of time and who had expected a permanent income for their support from that source have been thrown out of employment in the beginning of winter when times are accounted hard and money scarce These are some of the losses that will be directly felt by those who were not owners in the mills. To the owners the loss is very heavy We have not been able to satisfy ourselves as to the exact loss though we believe the statement of our reporter who was on the spot, is perhaps a little high as to the loss and low as to the amount of insurance We learn that the principal owners were the Jacobs Bros of Oregon City Brown Bros of San Francisco and W S Ladd of Portland We are also informed that they will probably rebuild them [illegible] [illegible] day We trust this may be so and that the energy and pluck will forever be preserved from such another test

Produce Market

Our Wheat market to-day presents no new features, though there seems to be some improvement [illegible] San Francisco [illegible] This however is only slight and no [illegible] in [illegible] present [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] what the demand might be [illegible] our surplus would still flood our [illegible] Some small lots [illegible] arrive but extensive transactions seem to have nearly ceased Our former quotations [illegible] unchanged

Flour is fairly active, with an increased demand for export The steamer for San Francisco this morning took about 5 000 barrels, and other shipments are being made to the ports to the north Demand for local consumption is fair The quality of Oregon Flour always good is this season ranked among the best Our Wheat was saved in splendid condition the latest improvements have been added to many of our mills and we hope to maintain a place in the front ranks of the flour makers of the country Our prices are firm as given heretofore

Oats appear to have made a material rise in the San Francisco market [illegible] by telegrams to day being $1 90@— [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] yet our market is unaffected [illegible] [illegible] at $1 40 per 100 lbs

Potatoes are in good supply and the market exhibits signs of turning dullness Best [illegible] command about $1 per 100 lbs

Eggs are coming forward in better supply and prices are marked down to 40 cents per dozen Retailers will follow suit and probably put their figures below 60 cents on Monday We hope so, for the sake of consumers

Butter is in fair receipt and figures are unchanged

Cheese is furnished at the old figures, and some shipments are being made

Poultry is being supplied in good quantities at the prices given below In fact the markets in this line are full

Apples are quoted at 60@— cents per box with a fair supply

Hay and feed are unchanged with a good supply coming to hand daily

San Francisco Produce Market.

A California exchange of the 19th says 'The produce market is improving and the prices are generally upward Wheat Barley and Oats are all dearer than for three months past The demand for Wheat and Barley for export is beginning to be pressing, Either freights must come down or ships must wait for cargoes till the farmers are starved out Most of those who are holding, Wheat [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] will end The [illegible] in freights [illegible] [illegible] Barley is very firm at $1 40 [illegible] plump Oats are taken at $1 [illegible] at [illegible] Wheat Hay is wanted at $[illegible] per ton Butter and Eggs are weak and with the influx of large receipts [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] choice [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea Gleet, Stricture Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents, guardians friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing, all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self abuse This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures viz Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath coughs, consumption night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity If relief be not obtained he should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of the complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers intelligence office keepers etc The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat disease that he proposes to cure
